

DYNAMITER FAILS TO MURDER VICTIM

Attempt Is Made to Take Life of Aged Lynchburg Woman.

NEARLY SUCCESSFUL

Charge of Explosive Is Placed Near Sleeping Room of Mrs. Mary Jones.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lynchburg, Va., February 12.—An attempt was made upon the life of Mrs. Mary Frances Jones this morning about 2 o'clock, when her home was partially wrecked by an explosion of dynamite, which had been placed at the window of her bedroom on the side veranda, only a short distance from the bed in which Mrs. Jones was sleeping.

That the design of the dynamiter failed is due, no doubt, to the fact that the person who located the charge of explosive was not familiar with its use, for the charge was sufficient to have demolished the entire residence if it had been properly placed. The southeastern side of the porch was practically demolished by the explosion, the being torn up for a space of ten or twelve feet, and practically every window light in that side of the residence was smashed into bits. People living in all parts of the city were aroused by the report, and those living nearby declared their homes were shaken as if by a severe earthquake.

The police were quickly on the scene and have been hard at work since morning. It is admitted that the dynamiter was a woman, and that the perpetrator, and it is expected that an arrest, or arrests, will be made in a short time.

The motive for the crime seems well established to the police, but they refuse to talk for publication. It would not be surprising in the least to see the whole matter cleared up within thirty-two or forty-eight hours.

A careful examination of the veranda shows that the explosive was placed beneath the window opening from Mrs. Jones' bedroom. The noise and concussion was so great that Mrs. Jones does not know how she reached the floor. The window was shattered, practically none of the two large panes remaining in the sash. The window gone, the bedchamber rapidly filled with a dense and very offensive smoke, which was stifling. She at once concluded that the house was on fire, not dreaming at the time that she was an intended victim of a murderer.

It was only a few seconds before the remainder of those sleeping in the house, the three men and another woman, went to the rescue of Mrs. Jones, and in a short time many neighbors, having been awakened by the noise of the explosion, went to the scene, and Mrs. Jones was well cared for, though she did not need as much attention as did some of her friends, who grew nervous as the real designs dawned upon them. Despite her slight fears, Mrs. Jones went through the ordeal with remarkable nerve and composure, and she was able to see her friends, many of whom came to extend their sympathy.

It is apparent that the force of the explosion was away from the house rather than toward it. Had the direction of the force been reversed it is believed that Mrs. Jones would have been killed.

On the foundation of the house at the southern corner this morning could easily be seen where the fuse leading to the explosive burned. Powder marks are evident on the white bricks. A portion of the burnt fuse was recovered by the police, and after it had been taken to the police station a measurement showed that this portion of the fuse was three feet in length. It is believed, however, that the fuse was at least fifty feet in length. It is believed the fuse was carried from the explosive to the ground, and then along the southern corner of the house toward Victoria Avenue, and at a distance of about fifty feet two freshly burned matches were found.

Mrs. Jones said to her friends this morning that she thought she heard some one walking on the veranda several times during the night, but not hearing distinctly she concluded she must be wrong. She said she thought that she heard the man at work placing the dynamite on the porch.

The police were quickly on the scene, but with the start that the slow burning fuse gave the dynamiter, there was little for them to do at that time.

Grip Prostrating Thousands

The Severe and Unseasonable Weather Believed to Be Responsible for the Increase.

Reports from all over the country indicate a great increase in the number of cases of grip and pneumonia, and the unusually dangerous form that grip is taking this season.

Grip and pneumonia attack quickly the system run down from overwork, from exposure and from the strain of worry.

They are especially dangerous at this season of the year, when people often neglect to prepare themselves for the sudden and severe changes of weather and prevent the consequences of unexpected exposure.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has been recognized as the most effective remedy and preventive of grip, pneumonia, coughs, colds and diseases of the respiratory organs. Physicians use, recommend and prescribe it in private practice and in hospital work.

The secret of the marvelous success of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in relieving and preventing throat and lung troubles lies in the fact that it is one of the greatest strengtheners and health builders known to medicine. It not only checks the ravages of the disease itself, but prevents the waste of tissues, and helps the stomach to more perfectly digest and assimilate food. (Advertisement.)

all save those personally interested in some particular enterprise or in the individuals connected with it, and they are bored by all the rest.

The educational feature of the performance lies in a section of the last reel, in which a number of views of the John Marshall High School and its pupils are shown. This reel also contains a few other non-advertising pictures.

Applause was bestowed yesterday afternoon upon a picture of Zach Volaski, who loudly sells newspapers; upon Police Justice Crutchfield, who creates news to print in the papers; and upon Traffic Officer Crafton, who brings offenders before Police Justice Crutchfield, who creates news to print in the papers.

STONE BROUGHT BY GOVERNMENT

Sensational Charges Are Filed by Order of Attorney-General.

Cleveland, Ohio, February 12.—Sensational charges are contained in a civil antitrust suit for the dissolution of the Cleveland Stone Company and its subsidiaries, filed here to-day by order of Attorney-General Wickersham.

To acquire a monopoly in the building, paving, curbing and grinstone business, the "stone trust" is charged with influencing architects "by a money consideration or by conferring favors" to specify its stone in their building plans; maintaining a separate organization of its subsidiaries to enable them to appear as competitors in bidding for contracts; fixing prices of building, paving and curbing stones in the Central States; and controlling the price of grinstones throughout the United States by agreements with jobbers and rebating.

The Cleveland Stone Company, its subsidiaries and their officers and directors are named as defendants by the government's petition in equity.

NO "JUNIOR PROM" AT CHAPEL HILL

Nonfraternity Men Win Battle After Many Days of Wrangling.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Chapel Hill, N. C., February 12.—Culminating many days of "politicizing" and much wrangling between the fraternity and nonfraternity elements of the junior class at the University of North Carolina over the question of "Junior prom" or no "prom," the class in session to-night by a decisive vote barred beyond retraction any dance feature as an attachment of junior week exercises to be sanctioned by the class as a whole. Branding the "Junior prom" as unrepresentative of the class, and to be further tolerated for the sake of mere custom, the nonfraternity men sought its utter downfall to-night and went a step further on a reception to the senior class in connection with a dance. The wrangle to-night was long drawn out, and substituted after substitute was offered, but the nonfraternity men of the class facetiously offered the suggestion that the present representative from Orange County in the Legislature be requested to railroad a bill forbidding the planning for a bond issue to pay the expenses of a "Junior prom."

WOODMEN ARE DENIED PLACE IN PARADE

Inaugural Committee Decides They Are Not Wanted in Pageant of March 4.

BLEASE TO FRONT AGAIN

He Has Refused to Permit South Carolina Troops to Leave State.

Washington, February 12.—Definite announcement was made to-day that the inaugural committee that there would be no college women or women representing organizations in the inaugural parade. The committee decided that no women should take part in the parade. Mrs. Elmer Black, of Chicago, had requested that the American Woman's Peace Congress be allowed to participate in the parade.

Governor Cole L. Blease, of South Carolina, according to a dispatch received here to-day from Columbia, S. C., as commander-in-chief of the State militia, has positively refused to allow the South Carolina militia to leave the State to attend the inauguration of President Wilson.

Objects to Colored Troops.

This action was taken after learning that negro troops would be placed in the line of march ahead of the South Carolina soldiers. Both houses of the Legislature requested the Governor to rescind his order. He refused to do so, and the general assembly rescinded its request to him.

According to arrangements for the militia division of the parade, the District National Guard will be first in line. The First Separate Battalion, N. G. D. C., made up of colored guardsmen, will be part of the District contingent in this section.

"Thirteen" on the Job.

The lucky number of the President-to-be is playing a part in the plans for the inaugural ceremonies. A partial list of individuals and organizations that will participate in the parade March 4, as given out to-day by the inaugural committee, shows that thirteen is the number of the day. The list of thirteen States will be represented, and that an equal number of commonwealths will send delegations of civic bodies. In addition, several military schools and six colleges and universities, a total of thirteen educational institutions, will be represented. Princeton University students will come to Washington in two special trains of thirteen coaches each.

The Secretary of War has granted permits to Mr. Eustis, chairman of the inaugural committee, for the erection of reviewing stands on public reservations No. 34 and 35, at the intersection of Ninth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue and No. 33-A, at the intersection of Pennsylvania Avenue and Thirteenth and a half Street. The stand on the last-named reservation is intended for the use of employees of the district government.

It was stated in response to an inquiry that the War Department has no authority over the Botanic Garden and the so-called Market space on Pennsylvania Avenue from Seventh to Ninth Street, where it is also desired for reviewing stands.

Holiday at University.

Word was received here to-day from Charlottesville, Va., that the faculty of the University of Virginia has declared March 4 a holiday at the institution. The question has been up for some time, and it was thought that the sentiment of the faculty was against declaring a holiday on that day. Because of the fact that President-Elect Wilson is an alumnus of the University, the latter has been granted the honor of a holiday in the college section of the inaugural parade if as many as 300 men attend.

The Southern railway will run a special train, leaving Charlottesville early in the morning and returning the same night, and under such conditions the number will very likely reach 600.

Georgetown Men to March.

A thousand Georgetown University students will march in the inaugural parade if plans made at a meeting at Georgetown Law School last night are carried into effect. The Georgetown contingent will seek to march second in the college section of the parade, behind the Princeton delegates.

The costume decided upon consists of the formal cap and gown, with a sash in blue and gray.

The meeting last night was addressed by Dr. Henry D. Jacob, member of the inaugural parade committee, and by Daniel W. Baker, a committee was appointed from all the classes to make the proper arrangements. This committee consists of John E. Cosgrove, chairman; C. E. Lee, Thomas F. Sullivan, Larry Cawley, Joseph McConville, L. M. Lovely, E. Hanlin, Frank Martin, Daniel Galotta, Howard F. Wright, Louis Herbst, Henry Wackerbarth, Henry Lyons, Thomas Hagan and Gustave Kessler. This committee will confer with committees from the other departments next Tuesday night to make final arrangements.

MORTGAGE TAXES WILL BE FOUGHT

Puts Premium on Tax-Dodging. Seeking to Amend State Laws.

A fight on the mortgage tax will be waged before the Legislature at its next session by the Richmond Real Estate Exchange indorses a recommendation of its committee appointed to take the matter up. It is urged that a set of reforms be adopted denouncing this form of taxation, and public sentiment be educated and that united effort for reform be put forth.

Besides the injustice of the mortgage tax, the committee believes it tends to deprive the many of the people in their attempts to evade payment of the same by illegal and questionable methods, which have recently been referred to by several of the grand juries as "leading almost to perjury itself."

The report of the committee is as follows:

Richmond, Va., February 12, 1913.

To the Board of Managers of the Richmond Real Estate Exchange:

Gentlemen,—Your committee on campaign to amend the mortgage tax law suggests the following:

1. That this board take official action

What Wouldn't You Give

What wouldn't you give to hear, right in your own home, any song, hymn, march, overture or operatic selection whenever and as often as you wished?

It is just possible that you may have a false impression regarding the VICTOR.

You will never know, until you have a Victor in your home, how perfectly the music you like can be played on the Victor.

tion by adoption of a preamble and set of resolutions, as follows:

"Whereas, it is apparent that the mortgage tax as now enforced in this State is a double taxation and is driving money out of this State that otherwise would be in circulation here; that the law works a hardship upon all the people and is a matter that especially and seriously affects the farmer, in that it makes it almost impossible for him to borrow money, and also the working man who is endeavoring to secure his home, we feel that legislation on the question of the real estate mortgage tax should have the support of every one in this State.

"It is a hardship upon the builders and contractors, in that it is difficult for them to secure loans at the legal rate of interest to carry on their business, thereby curtailing the growth of taxable values.

"It also works a hardship upon our financial institutions, as it is an abridgment of the millions of dollars were sent out of the State previous to the tax return period.

"It is tending to deprave and lessen the morals of the people in their attempts to evade payment of the same by illegal and questionable methods, which have recently been referred to by several of the grand juries as 'leading almost to perjury itself.'

"And whereas it has been proven by a large number of progressive States, such as New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maryland, Florida, Ohio, and others, that the enactment of laws now in force, that the revenues of the States have been largely increased by such amendments, and the burden of taxation equalized and made less burdensome, and lessened the tendency of the people to stultify themselves in their attempt to evade the same; be it—

"Resolved, first, That it is the sense of this exchange that the people and the State should be very largely benefited and many of the evils of the mortgage tax be removed by proper amendment to the mortgage tax law of this State.

"Second, That we recommend and will lend our assistance to the adoption of laws similar to those now in force in the States aforementioned, besides many others, which in substance is a single tax of 1/2 of 1 per cent upon the amount of the mortgage, and every mortgage, collectible only once and upon the recordation of the instrument securing the same, and to be the only debt and during the life of the said mortgage.

"Third, That we recognize the generosity of the press in already having given much of its space to this subject, and we request every newspaper and influence in promulgating the evils of the law as it now exists and the benefits to all the people of this State by the adoption of the amendment suggested.

"Fourth, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the press and all organized bodies that might be interested in this matter, with the request that they be read at their next meetings."

That copies of this resolution be sent to all real estate exchanges in the various cities and to every licensed realtor, agent and broker, with the request that they cooperate with us in the effort to have the mortgage tax law amended at the next session of the Legislature.

That a pamphlet or circular be prepared, setting forth the evils of the present law as now enforced and the benefits to be derived from the proposed amendment, and be widely distributed and circulated as possible, especially to county supervisors throughout the State, members of the Legislature and prospective candidates for office.

That each member of this exchange prepare a list of influential persons whom he may know, who reside in different parts of the State, give such lists to the secretary of this exchange, who will send copies of the circular, together with a letter stating that such circular is sent by request of Mr. _____, and asking consideration thereof and hearty cooperation.

NESSBIT REUSED STORAGE PERMIT

Administrative Board Calls Halt on Unlimited Use of City Streets.

ALREADY VIOLATING LAW

Has Had Two Streets Blocked by Thousands of Brick for Months Past.

Use of the city streets as a storage yard for building material was refused by the Administrative Board yesterday on application of F. T. Nesbitt & Co., contractors for the new Hotel Rucker. The action was prompt and unanimous, several members of the board calling attention to what has been going on for months past in the blocking of streets by building contractors in a way that is not allowed elsewhere.

An agent of the Nesbitt company asked permission to use the city streets as a storage yard for building material, which does not contradict the building ordinance in force, but abuts the Capitol Square.

Mr. Beck, of the Administrative Board, called attention to the fact that building material has been stored on the east side of Ninth Street, between Bank and Franklin Streets. The contracting firm was some weeks ago fined in the Police Court for storing building material on the sidewalk, which does not contradict the building ordinance in force, but abuts the Capitol Square.
